

Stranded In The Sierra Nevada: Adventures On The American Frontier

In the winter of 1846-47, a group of over eighty pioneers set out from Missouri on the Overland Trail to California. They were part of a larger group of emigrants who were seeking a new life in the promised land of the West. However, the pioneers' journey was cut short when they were stranded in the Sierra Nevada mountains by a heavy snowstorm.

The pioneers were ill-prepared for the harsh conditions they faced in the mountains. They had little food and supplies, and they were not equipped to travel through the deep snow. As a result, they were forced to abandon their wagons and travel on foot.
