In 1857, McGee decided to make a new life for himself in Canada. He settled in Montreal and quickly became involved in Canadian politics. He was elected to the Canadian Parliament in 1858 and served as a cabinet minister under Sir John A. Macdonald.

The Formation of the Canadian Confederation

McGee played a pivotal role in the movement to create a Canadian confederation. He was a strong advocate for the union of the British North American colonies and helped to negotiate the terms of the British North America Act, which established the Dominion of Canada in 1867.

A Tragic End
